Late, anonymous campaign mailer may have hurt two candidates at once

By Steve Marschke

Two city council candidates were rocked late last week by a late campaign "hit piece" which targeted one of them while supporting the other.

Targeted was Bill Kristoff, an incumbent city councilman and a candidate for another four-year term in yesterday's ballot. At the end of the "hit piece," however, was the message "Mark Montemayor for City Council," referring to another candidate in the race.

Some residents who received the mailing thought that Montemayor's campaign had put out the mailer -- an accusation which Montemayor and his volunteers spent much of the weekend trying to combat.

"My volunteers and myself put a concerted effort into trying to rectify that misconception," Montemayor said Tuesday. He had printed a disclaimer which showed a picture of the mailer with an "X" drawn through it and an accompanying message which called the charges raised in it against Bill Kristoff "unsubstantiated." Montemayor's campaign distributed this new flyer by hand.

Montemayor also contacted the city clerk and the district attorney's office requesting an investigation, in the belief that campaign rules may have been violated by whoever sent the mailer.

A unknown number of city residents received the piece.

The letter consisted of a regular, 8 1/2 inch by 11 inch piece of paper which satired Kristoff's "Thanks, Bill" campaign slogan with a series of paragraphs "thanking" Kristoff for alleged misconduct in office.

The paper was mailed with a 32-cent stamp and computer label. No campaign identification was printed on the letter, as is required in political mailings.

Kristoff said he still doesn't know who mailed the "hit piece."

"I think we've got to use due diligence and research to see what's going on," he said. About the charges in the letter, Kristoff commented that "none of them are true."

The mailing charged Kristoff with misusing city credit cards for personal meals and a vacation rental car, quietly buying property in the city to financially benefit from his city council decisions and maneuvering his "brother in law" to the planning commission and then into a city council race.

"I don't own any property in Southport, don't have a credit card and never rented a car," Kristoff commented. "Chuck's not my brother in law," he added, referring to Charlie Moore, the apparent subject of the "brother in law" claim.

"None of it is true."

It is true that Kristoff used to use a city credit card, but no longer has one. Moore is indeed not his brother in law.

What the candidates for council spent:

As of October 19 -- the latest date for which public records are available, a number of candidates for West Sacramento City Council had reported raising over $10,000 for their campaigns. The war chests seemed to be about average for a council race, with the local records having been set by a pair of candidates who spent around $30,000 each in 1990.

The News-Ledger will provide a campaign finance update when all records are turned in after the election. Here's what they reported as of about two weeks ago:

Four the four-year seats, which will be won by the top three vote-getters, Mayor Greg Potnick led the pack with $12,054 raised and $6,841 spent at that time. City Council member Cindy Tuttle reported raising $11,249 and spending $8,696 and council member Bill Kristoff reported raising $10,241 and spending $1,510.

Following them were Mark Montemayor, who raised $8,885 and spent $7,567; Jim Cahill, who raised $4,245 and spent $4,163, and Marna Miller, who raised $2,337 and spent $2,966.

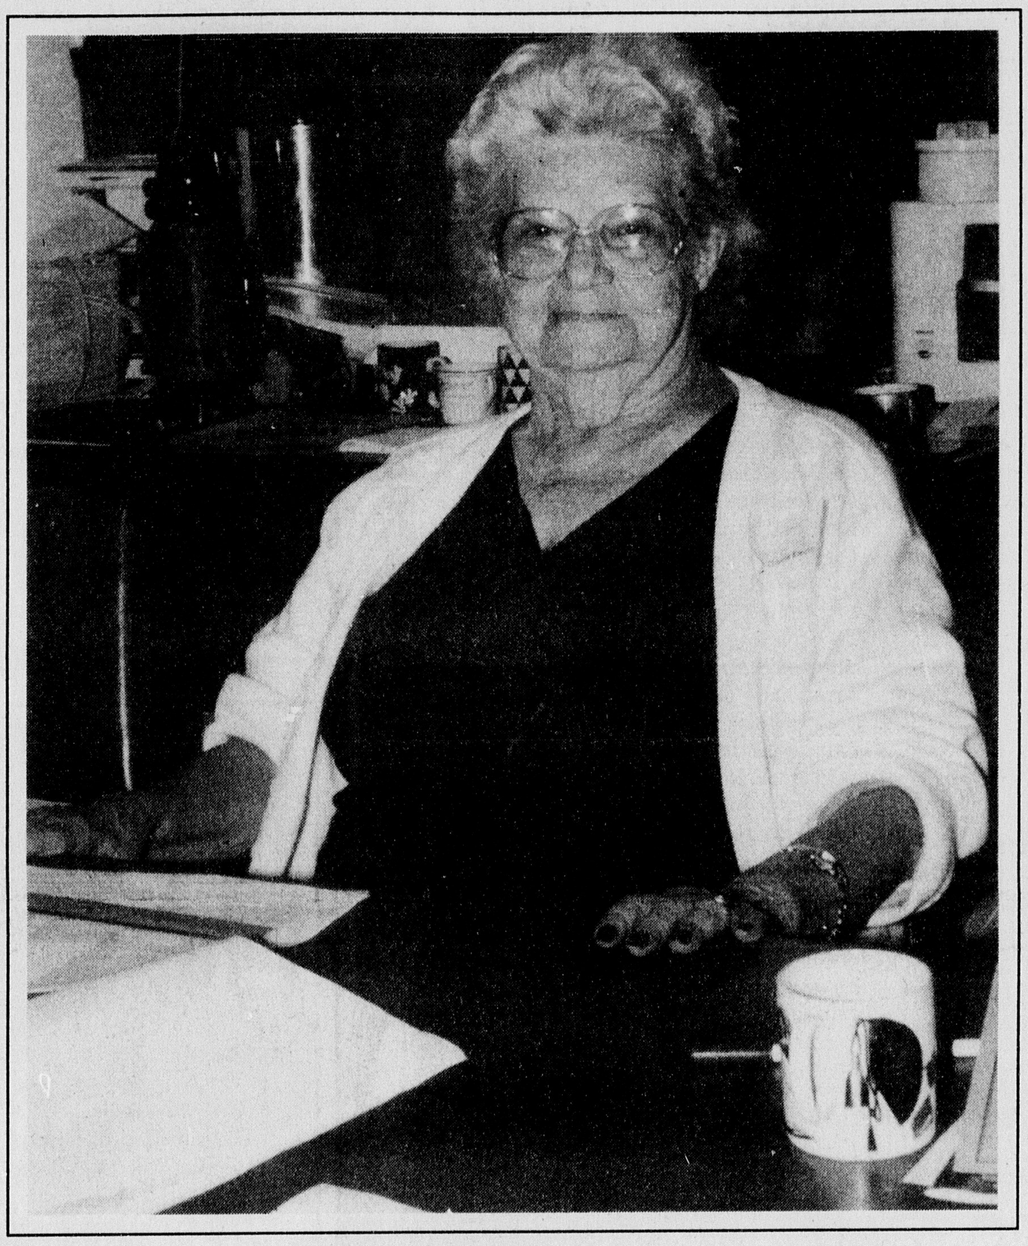
On the two-year term race, which will feature only one winner, Charles Moore reported raising $13,765 and spending $8,647 as of Oct. 19. Christopher Cabaldon raised $11,347 and spent $9,881, while Dorothy Adamo reported raising $1,366 and spending $1,294.

Citizen Vincent Frugoli, who is not running for office, reported spending $3,458 of his own money in an independent campaign to elect Cahill, Montemayor, Kristoff and Moore, while targeting Potnick and Tuttle for defeat.

Frugoli did not estimate his total costs, saying that he would recover and re-use much of the lumber he used for political signs, and therefore did not yet know how much he truly has spent in materials until after the signs are recovered.

There is no spending cap for city council races. There is a $250 cap on individual contributions to campaign, although there is no limit on how much of a candidate's own money he or she can spend.

Making democracy work



LAURA BELL SMITH, 80, worked at the polling station on 15th Street in West Sacramento.

It was her "50th or 51st" consecutive year of working as a pollworker, she said.

Smith, a West Sacramento resident since 1940, first voted herself in the 1936, when Franklyn Delano Roosevelt was one of the presidential candidates.

"It's fun to see the young people voting now who weren't even born when I started working at polls," she commented.

Pollworkers receive a $54 stipend, she said. Yesterday, that entailed working from 6:30 a.m. to about 9:30 p.m., helping the polling station at a local fire station service about 500 voters.

"It must be patriotic duty," she reported. "It's lower than minimum wage. I like it. The young people are now as old as I was when I started."

If $54 sounds cheap, consider that the stipend used to be only $5 per pollworker.

Early, unofficial results from local election races are included as an insert in today's News-Ledger.

Rooftop arson leads to damage

A late-night arsonist started a blaze on the roof of the Republican headquarters on West Capitol Ave. last Tuesday night, Oct. 30, but whether the motive was political is still not clear.

Both the West Sacramento Police Department and the city fire department are investigating the roof-top fire. A suspect was reportedly spotted and fled, leaving a plastic gas can which melted in the blaze. A Republican party spokesman said some damage occurred due to the fire before the fire department put it out, but the headquarters were not shut down.

The Republican party office is one tenant in a shared structure north of the Raley's supermarket.

Flag-raising at new HQ

Local police are planning two ceremonies Thursday to recognize the official move of the department from an old sheriff's substation on Third St. in Broderick to a new facility on Jefferson Blvd. near Triangle Ct. and north of Safeway supermarket.

The new, larger facility has undergone renovation in order to provide more space to the department, which has had to make do in the old building since the city incorporated in 1987.

The flag will be lowered for the last time at the Third St. police station at 10:00 a.m. on Thursday, and will be raised at the new West Sacramento Police Department at noon.

The new facility will open formally on Nov. 15 with a second flag raising ceremony, but most police personnel will be working out of the new building after this Thursday.

Friends seek help for local family to pay medical bills

The family of one-year old Hannah Schroeder needs help with the girl's medical bills.

Hannah was stricken with viral encephalitis in July and was hospitalized for two weeks with seizures and brain swelling before being released on her first birthday.

But Hannah has suffered a relapse that brought complications now requiring 24-hour care. She will be moved to Children's Hospital in Oakland.

HANNAH SCHROEDER

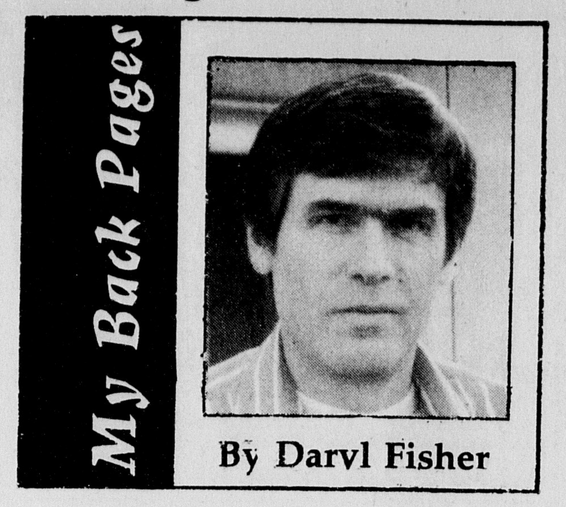
Her mother, Tammy, has exhausted all her medical leave with her employer, Sacramento Radiological Associates. Father Tim has opened Schroeder's Shoe and Boot Repair Shop in West Sacramento, and is trying "to get the business off the ground," said friends.

The family and friends have sponsored a fundraiser to help pay the bills. The dinner/dance will be held on Friday, Nov. 15, beginning at 7 p.m., with raffle prizes and with music courtesy of FM 102.5. Tickets for the dance only will be $6, and for the dinner and dance will be $10. Tickets must be purchased in advance, and may be reserved by calling Kelli, 371-2747, or Helen, 371-5244.

In the meantime, donations are appreciated, and may be sent to the Hannah Schroeder Trust Fund, c/o US Bank, 1401 Merkley Ave., West Sacramento, CA 95691.

The truth is rarely found where it's supposed to be

This week, Daryl re-prints a favorite column from the past:



When I was young -- 22 to be exact -- a girl I liked invited me to go camping with her and her family. I had just returned from Vietnam and I told her, "Thanks for asking, but I think I've had enough camping to last me a lifetime."

"But this isn't real camping," she assured me. "We have a nice little cabin up near Donner Lake. Come on, it'll be fun. Plus my dad really wants to meet you."

"What?" I asked, suddenly more alarmed than if she had said her family cabin was located right in the heart of the Iron Triangle.

"You're going to have to meet my dad sooner or later," she said, obviously reading the panic on my face. "This'll be the perfect way to get it over with."

"I guess you're right," I finally said. "Is he a pretty easy person to talk to?"

She smiled, took my sweaty hand into hers and said, "I'm afraid he's a college philosophy professor. You should be prepared to think BIG."

"What's that mean?" I asked her with concern.

"Just that my dad is full of hot air and thinks he has the answers to all of the world's problems." She smiled even wider and added, "Hey, you two ought to get along just great, huh?"

And so we did until darkness blanketed my second night at the mountain-top cabin and my girlfriend's father suggested that he and I go out and look up at the numerous constellations he could identify. "So, Daryl, what do you think about when you look up at all these stars on a clear night like this?" he suddenly asked me.

"Oh, I don't know," I finally managed to reply. "How the universe got started and stuff like that I guess."

"Well," he said, looking directly at me, almost through me, "when I look up into the sky on an incredible night like this, I think about how everything we believe in is usually 180 degrees from what it seems."

"Really?" I said, trying to buy some time to figure out what he was talking about.

"That's right," he explained, "the truth is almost always the exact opposite of what we think it is. Now you think about that when you get some time. It's a great thing to learn at an early age."

He also went on to explain the yin and yang in Chinese cosmology and a number of other interesting concepts which went over my head, but later that night, as I tried to fall asleep on a sagging couch which had seen much better days, I couldn't get his little theory that the truth is rarely what we think it is out of my mind. As I kept endlessly flipping the beliefs (he had called them barriers) which confined my life on their backside, it finally dawned on me that the man wasn't nuts at all, and that what he had said was actually an insight worth remembering.

Anyway, although his daughter and I stopped dating soon thereafter and I never really got a chance to talk to him at any great length again, I still recall that little starry-night chat with appreciation from time to time. I also often find myself bumping into the truth, or at least what I believe the truth to be, just where he said I would find it -- about 180 degrees from where it's supposed to be. And here are just a few old assumptions of mine which have turned out to be pretty much the exact opposite of what I once believed them to be:

That if you put enough time and effort into raising your children, they will all turn out exactly the way you want.

That the more money you earn, the more you'll be able to save.

That one has to love rarely to love well.

That we can tame the savageness of man and make gentle the life of the world.

That one can actually improve the educational experience of young men and women by getting elected to a school board.

That those who make big profits know how to profit from them.

That the politics of nations are shaped by men with ideals and nobility.

That a man or woman who has become conscious of the absurd will someday be free of it.

That a gorgeous spring day in the foothills can last forever.

That the world will not kill the very good, the very gentle, and the very brave impartially.

That there is no victory in lost causes.

That there is sun without shadow, and it's not essential to know the night.

That there is meaning in the happiness of angels.

That we can know beauty without being intimate with suffering.

That the decadence of our era is different from that of others.

That when you act, you risk more.

And that we will have the good fortune in our lives to meet, love, and disappoint only exceptional beings.

The Oakland Raiders lost to John Elway and the Denver Broncos on Monday night before a sell-out crowd of 61,179.

The Raiders battled back from a 16-7 deficit to score two touchdowns in the fourth quarter that put the Raiders on top 21-16.

But that left Elway five minutes to pull off his comeback. Elway directed a six play, 73 yard drive that ended with a 49-yard touchdown bomb that gave the Broncos a 22-21 final score.

The Raiders travel to Tampa Bay next Sunday as 6 1/2 point favorites. The Raiders' record dropped to 4-5, four games behind Denver.

The 49ers' record improved to 7-2 with their 24-17 victory over New Orleans.

The 49ers and the Cowboys will have their showdown at 3Com Park next Sunday at 1 p.m.

The Niners are 3 1/2 point favorites as the "Boys" come to town after their last-minute loss last Sunday to the Eagles. The Cowboys really need to win this game, as their record is now five and four, two games behind Washington and Philadelphia (both 7-2) in the East.

49ers 31, Cowboys 17.

The Sacramento Kings lost the season opener in Houston last Friday, but they routed the Mavericks 107-93 in Dallas on Saturday night.

The Kings (1-1) return to the Arco Arena for their home opener against Houston, then they play Thursday against Atlanta and Portland on Saturday.

Boxing returns to downtown on Thursday, Nov. 14, when undefeated Willie Jorrin tangles with George Parra. Tickets are available at the Sacramento Convention Center box office.

Grizzlies get best of Raiders

By Joe Dastagirzada
River City High School

On November 1, River City javee football hosted the Golden Sierra Grizzlies. This was a big game for the Raiders, but they lost 22 to 8.

In the first quarter, RC scored a touchdown by #44 Ricky Knapp after a pass interference called on the Grizzlies. The two point conversion was good on a run by Dominique Alpers. The score was River City 8, Golden Sierra 0 at the end of the first.

In the second quarter, Golden Sierra scored a TD by #1 Derek San. The two-point conversion was good. RC had a great chance to score on the seven yard line with 24 seconds remaining in the half when Brady Tacdol threw an intercepted pass. Raider Malcolm Floyd quickly got the ball back with an interception of a Grizzlie pass, but time ran out in the half, with the score tied up at 8.

The third quarter belonged to the Grizzlies. #25 scored on a TD run, and also ran in the two-point conversion. After the third quarter the score was RC 8, Golden Sierra 16.

The fourth quarter was the last chance for the Raiders to do something positive and tie up the game. Unfortunately, they couldn't, because Grizzlie Scott Choy grabbed a spectacular one-handed catch off a 25-30 yard pass. Sealing the game for the Grizzlies, #23 scored on a six-yard touchdown run, but the two-point conversion failed. The final score was Golden Sierra 22, RC 8. RC has an overall record of 3-4. They have scored 117 points and allowed 101 in 7 games.

RC varsity football also lost to Golden Sierra, 57-0. This week, the Raiders will travel to Lindhurst, expecting to win.

Golf passes help charity

Golfers, and those who buy gifts for golfers, will enjoy a newly expanded program offered by the American Lung Association of Sacramento-Emigrant Trails (ALASET). Called the Golf Privilege Club, the program offers golfers the opportunity to play at over 900 golf courses in the Western United States and two provinces in Canada at greatly discounted prices. Some participating golf courses even offer free greens fees.

Participating courses range from prestigious resorts like the PGA West Jack Nicklaus Resort Course and Rancho Mirage Country Club in Palm Springs to uniquely charming courses like Sea Ranch Golf Links on the ocean in Sonoma County and The Resort at the Mountain in Welches, Oregon. Hundreds of municipal courses in cities throughout the West are also included.

The American Lung Association has held down the price for this popular program; the club membership book still sells for only $25. A volume discount rate of four cards for $75 is also available.

To receive a free brochure, or to order by phone using VISA or MasterCard, call the American Lung Association toll-free at (800) LUNG-USA (586-4872).

SAFEWAY STUDENT ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

This week's scholar-athlete is River City High School senior CATHY LEAL, a 17-year old volleyball player with a 4.0+ grade point average.

Not only does she play volleyball, she also plays basketball and softball. Her favorite sport is volleyball because she enjoys the feeling of ace serves and hard kills.

She's played volleyball for five years.

Cathy's favorite class is physics because she enjoys doing lab experiments and not working out of the book. She adds that Mr. Benning is a fun teacher to learn from.

After Cathy graduates, she plans to go on to Sac State and a money-making job. Cathy also said that this year's volleyball team was great, and although they could have done better, they had a fun season.

Election musings

Sweet relief; the election is over and the barrage of negative campaigning has stopped. For a moment there, this country felt like Beirut.

Despite the lack of a truly divisive campaign issue, the local city council race packed a surprising punch, with a fair amount of sniping and sniping back between candidates. Congratulations to those candidates who managed to stick to the issues and not to name-calling. There is a fine line between attacking someone's record and merely attacking someone, and it's too bad not everyone running had good enough vision to see that line.

Now that the ballot levers have been pulled, the candidates have one more job:

Please don't forget to take down those campaign signs. . .

■■■

The school board election, meanwhile, passed by with barely a whimper. Even Hal Williams is a new man.

Something to watch is what the new school board does with its superintendent. The previous board had neglected to bring up a contract renewal for Dr. Miller, whose contract expires in under two years.

All candidates support the idea of school uniforms, to improve cohesion and discipline among students while discouraging a money spending contest among fashion-conscious kids and parents.

Candidates for city council agreed (remarkably) on many issues. They virtually all agreed that the quality of West Sacramento's planning, including projects such as the Southport Framework Plan, Triangle waterfront plan and other projects, is good. They generally agree that code enforcement needs to be a priority, and that the parks department has done a lot with its recession-damaged budget in recent years.

The real schism among candidates seems to be along a general philosophical issue. Challengers generally felt the incumbent council is insulated and out of touch with the public, while incumbents felt city progress has been greater than what they have been given credit for. Interestingly, many people -- both candidates and members of the public -- separated the members of the council majority, Tuttle and Potnick, from the other member, Kristoff, perhaps more than the voting records support. The majority members also received some blame for issues they were less involved in than Kristoff, the council's senior member.

Everyone running generally felt the city was on the verge of great growth following several years of recession, and that developments such as the new bridge connecting northern and southern West Sacramento and the Money Store Headquarters on the riverfront were positive things.

Letters to the Editor

Late mail

What has happened to the local post office service?

Neighbors are exchanging each others' mail as far as a block away. (Same house numbers, but different streets.) Deliveries are as late as 5 p.m., and sometimes not at all -- then when you pick up the morning newspaper, there's yesterday's mail.

Go back to basics. Forget the machines, even though it takes a "human" to feed them.

History society

The West Sacramento Historical Society would like to thank everyone who participated in our inaugural fundraiser dinner this past October 26 to restore the historic fire engine, Old Mary. Also, a big thank you to all who donated items or made a monetary contribution to the event. The society greatly appreciates the show of support for the goals of the organization. The evening was a tremendous success ensuring that Old Mary will begin the restoration process.

This past September, the society celebrated its third birthday reviewing our past achievements realizing that there are many projects that we want to undertake. We invite all interested people to join the society and get involved in our activities.

Editor, in your editorial comment in last week's News-Ledger, you quoted Jesse Orta explaining his offering of the society's fire truck to City Council candidate, James Cahill. For the record, neither Orta or Cahill are affiliated with the West Sacramento Historical Society. Our group is a 501(c)3 non-profit, non-political organization.

You may contact the society by calling either Jeri Hughes Wingfield at 371-7678 or Louisa R. Vessell at 372-3453.

To Cabaldon:

An Open Letter to Chris Cabaldon (distributed by hand in West Sacramento):

If the voters of West Sacramento decide to elect you, as a city council member, I hope you will be more truthful during your term of office than you have been in your campaign.

You know you were not truthful when you implied that you have been endorsed by the Yolo County Central Committee and the West Sacramento Democratic Club.

You know that you were not truthful when, without their consent or the permission of the organizations they represent, you used the titles of Lisa Roberts and Bill Ritters on your campaign flyers. Didn't you care how much "flak" they had to take on your behalf? Will you be that thoughtless if and when you are in office? Yes, they both gave you their personal endorsements -- but neither they, nor you, had the right to use those titles as you did.

It has been suggested that you knew these, and other remarks you have made in this campaign, were not truthful but you didn't think it mattered because all you had to do was say, "Gee, I'm sorry," like a good kid and it would all go away. After all, it really is too late for anyone to do anything about it now, isn't it?

Well, guess what Chris, you aren't a little kid any more! Not if you are running for a council seat in this city.

DOROTHY B. ADAMO
City Council Candidate
West Sacramento

From Montemayor

I have been campaigning since January, and now it is all over.

I have walked through almost four pairs of shoes, and now it is all over.

I have been out there in the 110 degree heat and in the rain, and now it is all over.

Now the main thing I want to do is thank all the people that were there with me, and the people that took the time and consideration to vote for me.

I take pride in the fact that I ran what tradition has called "a grass roots" campaign; nothing fancy, just knocking on doors, telling you who I am, and asking for your vote.

There were a lot of great people who encouraged me when there were thousands of pages of precinct lists to go, and I was exhausted.

People were there to build signs, erect signs, maintain the signs, and generally, kept my name positive to the voters.

There were people who cooked, and decorated, and ran errands.

These are the very important people who performed a thousand tasks over the last eight months.

To my family and friends, to those that voted for me, to those that did not, and MOST especially to my mother; to all of you, THANK YOU from the bottom of my heart.

The campaign has taught me to appreciate the voters even more than when I started. It is their trust and confidence that I will honor and work hard to be worthy of.

Win or lose, this has been a complete victory, and my gratitude goes to those that made all these positive things happen in this campaign possible.

Election deceit

On October 29, 1996, a friend of mine, and resident of the City of Davis, received a political flyer supporting Ed Schlenker for Assembly. This political flyer scandalously and libelously misrepresents my views, as Yolo County Chief Probation Officer, of the support Helen Thomson has provided to Yolo County law enforcement, public safety, and probation services programs.

During Helen Thomson's membership on the Yolo County Board of Supervisors, her active support of law enforcement and community corrections has been manifest as follows:

Co-chair with the Sheriff, District Attorney, and Chief Probation Officer on the successful 1992 Public Safety Sales Tax Initiative;

Board liaison to the County Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Commission;

Moving Board Member to expand the Juvenile Hall capacity by 150 percent;

Chair of a Board-appointed Juvenile Hall Security Upgrade Committee; and Consistently supporting balanced County programs with strong emphasis on public safety.

I have been a Yolo County Probation Officer for 30 years and Chief Probation Officer for 12 years. During that time I have known Helen Thomson to be a strong, creative, dynamic, energetic, and unswerving advocate and supporter of public safety and criminal justice issues and budgets. I am offended by the pro-Schlenker flyer which states that I, as "County Probation officer ripped Helen Thomson's budgets for cutting essential law enforcement services." This flagrantly deceitful misrepresentation of the extremely high esteem in which I, as Chief Probation Officer, hold Helen Thomson is shameful, unethical, and immoral. I write this letter to you so that you will immediately help set the record straight.

Child custody

Our family participated in the court-connected mandatory mediation process in Yolo County regarding a child custody/visitation matter.

I have worked extensively to become informed regarding how a stronger, mediation-based accountability role, if enacted in the language of the Rules of Court, County of Yolo, would be an important step toward refocusing the mediation process as it impacts post-divorce families.

In 1991, Statewide Uniform Standards were adopted giving consumers of mediation services in child custody and visitation disputes legal authority to file a formal or written complaint. Thus at the county level the consumer had the legal authority to file a written grievance in the Superior Court where issues of alleged mediator impartiality and/or incompetence could be heard.

However, the Uniform Standards were mere recommendations to each of the 58 counties, with the understanding that each county Superior Court would decide if and when to adopt the Uniform Standards.

In 1996, the Yolo County Family Law Bench/Bar Committee had drafted procedural rules based on the Uniform Standards for use in Yolo County. I understand that it is expected that these procedures will be included in the Local Rules of the Court, scheduled for adoption in January, 1997.

Upon written request, I obtained a copy of both the Uniform Standards and the Draft. The full text of the state rules with approved drafters' commentary is entitled "Uniform Standards of Practice for Court-Connected Mediation of Child Custody and Visitation Disputes" and available from the Administrative Office of the Courts (303 Second Street, South Tower; San Francisco, CA 94107).

A current draft of the local rules under discussion, entitled "Yolo County Supervisor/Municipal Court, Family Law Process and Grievance Policy/Procedures" is available. For a copy of the draft, please write to: Hon. Doris L. Shockley; Presiding Judge of the Superior/Municipal Court; County of Yolo (725 Court Street, Room 103; Woodland, CA 95695).

Any party with suggestions as to changes in the written draft which you wish to see implemented should write with such suggestions and why to the Family Law Committee, Charles Jensen, Chair, (Woodland). A copy may be mailed to the Yolo County Board of Supervisors.

Campaign wish list

I have a list of the things that would not be missed in another election:

1. Telephone polling by those who do not and will not say who is paying for the call.

2. Requests to know how I have voted or will vote: why did we work so hard to secure the secret Australian ballot if we tell how we voted and that information is used to influence other voters.

3. The Chamber of Commerce participation in election recommendations and influencing of outcomes. The City contributes funds for their activities and the problem is compounded because there is no public process for exploration of all the interests in candidates, initiatives and campaign issues. Acting as a forum for consideration of what a local business sees as needed must also include the balancing of how the community as a whole is impacted and being sure that there is a process for working for the best possible solution which enhances the quality of life in West Sacramento.

Some goals for the future:

1. A ballot choice: None of the above.

2. Recognitions that we have all of us a stake in the future of West Sacramento and that if our City Council does not have our input into the budget and planning decisions, we cannot complain. The best possible council needs support; residents do not have the time or money of special interests but they can take up the major issues study the alternatives and understand that sometimes there will not be enough money for our street paving but can be sure that the money that is spent is spent with a priority that we have helped establish.

3. Come to grips with whether redevelopment is a drain on the residents and our quality of life (it hasn't helped in ten years) and what can be done about it.

4. Return the City and school elections to the odd year ballot. The even may save money as was touted in the plan to put all elections in November, even years but makes for too much.

5. Study the initiative and referendum process and return competing initiatives to a legislative process. We must make legislature work.

Commentary on the 'Grinch':

Help firemen rally after Santa robbed

From Mike Carr
West Sac. Firefighter

To all good citizens of West Sacramento, the West Sacramento Fire Fighters Association needs your help in bringing to justice the low life thieves who broke into and burglarized our Association hall, located at 1966 Park Boulevard in West Sacramento, and stole numerous items, some of which will affect the whole community.

You see, the annual Santa Claus run which the Firefighters Association has sponsored for at least 25 years, is now in jeopardy of not being run this year because of these thieves. Among the items stolen were the sound system and speakers which we use to play Christmas songs and to amplify Santa's voice while he is riding on the fire engine and/or truck. All items stolen were bought and paid for by association members and upgraded over the years. No taxpayer money is used for this property (Association Hall) and/or any contents of the property. Some maintenance items that were stolen such as lawn mower, weed eater, etc. were donated by association members.

This theft could not have happened at a worse time for our membership, as our funds are at an all-time low, due in part to the passing of one of our own, earlier this year. Fire Captain Dave Iwami, who died of a massive heart attack at the young age of 48 years old and left behind a wife and two teenage children. Of course our membership, while suffering with the loss ourselves, did everything in its power to try and ease the pain and suffering of this young family, both in a supportive role and in financial contributions directly to the family within a day of his death. Our association (non-profit status) membership only numbers 42 active members at the present time and we sponsor many community activities, including the annual Santa Clause run, local scholarship fund to River City High School and many more which I will not list in this letter.

The bottom line here is if this act was committed by someone that resides in this community, someone out there may hear of it and be able to forward the names and/or be on the look-out for this stolen property. The stolen property was not insured and the value of the speakers alone were in the neighborhood of $1,400.00. If you have any information regarding this theft, you may contact the West Sacramento Police directly or pass on this information to any West Sacramento Fire personnel. Most items were marked (W.S.F.F.A.) and a partial list of items stolen were stereo system, CD player, CD tapes, four speakers (large), telephone, coffee maker, lawn mower, weed eater, softball equipment and bag and a retired Fire Engineer belt buckle torn off a plaque with the name Bob Perry on it.

In closing I am writing this letter as an individual, association member, life-long resident of the community, and 27-year member of the West Sacramento Fire Department. Thank you in advance for your support.

West Sac Meals Coalition plans dinner for Nov. 16 at VFW Hall

From the West Sacramento Resource Center

The West Sacramento Meals Coalition is holding its 13th Annual Harvest Day Dinner on November 16 at the VFW Hall #8762, at 11th and Soule Streets in West Sacramento.

There will be no-host cocktails beginning at 6:30 p.m., with dinner to follow at 7. Tickets will be $10, with all proceeds benefitting the West Sacramento Meals Coalition.

The coalition is a program of the West Sacramento Resource Center/Broderick Christian Center, serving a sack lunch to needy persons of West Sacramento, and has done so for the past 12 years. The coalition started as a sack lunch at the Broderick Boat Ramp. In 1991, the resource center was established, and this was a great enhancement to the sack lunch. We are now a full-service program to meet the needs of our community with information, referral and other services. Our motto is "Helping People to Help Themselves."

For further information or a tour of the center, please call Susan Lindahl at 372-8980.

Redevelopment agency partners for loan fund

The West Sacramento Redevelopment Agency recently received financial commitments from three local financial institutions for the purpose of establishing a business loan fund. The commitments will greatly strengthen the Redevelopment Agency's application to the State's Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Economic Development Enterprise Fund program. This program awards funds to communities for the purpose of establishing a revolving loan program for local businesses.

The commitments, totaling $350,000, have been made by First Northern Bank, U.S. Bank, and Continental Bank in Vacaville. Each of these has pledged a minimum of $100,000 as a partner with the Redevelopment Agency in the program. In addition, Bank of America has expressed a strong interest in being a participant.

The CDBG funds will enable the Redevelopment Agency to establish the structure of an ongoing business loan fund as well as provide the initial capitalization of the fund, similar to the revolving loan fund the City currently operates for housing activities. The initial focus of the business loan program will be to provide loans to help retain and expand existing industrial and manufacturing businesses and business-serving businesses located in West Sacramento. In addition, assistance may be provided to well-established businesses moving to West Sacramento and creating new jobs.

The Redevelopment Agency has retained a consultant, Applied Development Economics (ADE), to prepare and submit the City's application. ADE's expertise has already proved extremely useful in obtaining the $350,000 in up-front financial commitments. This is a key factor considered by the State in the award process. The application is due to the State on October 18, 1996. The anticipated date of notification of award is January 1997.

Loan funds can be used for construction loans, equipment purchase loans, land acquisition loans, loans for on-site improvements, loan guarantees, and public infrastructure grants. Loan funds cannot be used for working capital and refinancing of existing debt. A key requirement of the program will be job creation. The creation of retention of one full-time job is required per $35,000 is CDBG funds loaned. At least 51 percent of the jobs must be filled by low-moderate income persons.

Hope you voted.

From the City of West Sacramento

Town Hall Talk

West Sacramento once again benefited from another highly popular Beautification Week. The City's Recycling Division, along with the Parks & Community Services Department and the Department of Public Works, held Fall Beautification Week September 16 - 21, 1996. The results were outstanding!

A small army of community volunteers, including local youths, City employees and City Commissioners assisted West Sacramento residents in unloading and sorting material from over 600 vehicles taking advantage of the free residential rubbish drop-off. By the end of the week, nearly 750 households were cleaned up for the winter! This twice-yearly event offers West Sacramento residents a local site for disposing of waste, while promoting diversion of material from the landfill.

The week-long event resulted in another record-breaking total of over 200 tons of waste collected! In addition to the 88 tons of material actually sent to the landfill, 124 tons were recycled. Recycled items included 60 tons of wood waste, including shrubs, tree prunings and lumber, 28 tons of metal waste, 25 tons of concrete and 2 tons of cardboard. In addition, 9 tons of tires were also recycled.

The sorting and recycling components of Beautification Week resulted in 58% of the material collected being diverted from the landfill.

This worthwhile program not only beautifies the community, but also helps the City reach its State-mandated goal of reducing the total amount of waste disposed by 50% by the year 2000.

Preparations are already underway for the Spring event to be held in the month of May, 1997. If you or your local organization are interested in volunteering for Beautification Week, please contact the Recycling Division at 373-5893.

This column, written by City of West Sacramento staff, covers a variety of topics concerning the City of West Sacramento's government and services. Army Private William A. Thompson has entered basic military training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C.

During the eight weeks of training, the soldiers will study the Army mission and will receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, Army history and traditions, and special training in human relations.

Thompson is the son of Andrea R. Thompson of Sacramento and Brian I. Thompson of West Sacramento. He is a 1993 graduate of River City High School.

Air Force Airman Travis J. Shaw has graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

During the six weeks of training, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization, and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Shaw is the son of Kathy Shaw of West Sacramento. His wife, Amber, resides in Florence, Oregon.

Army Reserve Pfc. Andrew J. Halford has graduated from basic military training at Fort Leonard Wood, Waynesville, Mo.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Halford is the son of Margaret Halford of West Sacramento and Michael Halford of Vandalia, Ill.

Navy Petty Officer Third Class Matthew T. Flint, son of Larry and Pat Flint of West Sacramento, is halfway through a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas, and Persian Gulf aboard the fast combat support ship USS Supply, as part of the USS Enterprise Battle Group.

Flint's ship has traveled 20,000 miles and completed more than 80 underway replenishment missions with U.S. and foreign ships. Underway replenishment is a dangerous operation where supplies, ammunition, fuel and dry and frozen stores are passed to other ships while traveling a couple of yards apart at the same speed and course. Supplies are transported from one ship to another by lines and pulleys or by helicopters.

So far, Flint and fellow shipmates have visited Italy, Spain, Sicily, Greece, Crete, Turkey, United Arab Emirates and Bahrain. While in port visiting Crete, Flint and fellow shipmates helped paint a Red Cross building as well as several rooms of a local senior citizens' home.

The 1995 graduate of River City High School joined the Navy in July, 1995.

Sarah K. Lyda has joined the United States Army under the Delayed Enlistment Program at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station, Sacramento. This program gives young men or women the opportunity to delay enlistment into the Army for up to one year before reporting to basic military training.

Lyda, a 1996 graduate of River City High School, will report to Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., for military basic training on November 20, 1996. She is the daughter of Kimberly Lyda of West Sacramento.
